MESSAGE FROM BOARD CHAIR AND CEO

The central tenant of Daily Bread Food Bank's Strategic Plan is the Right to Food for everyone. For too many in our city, this basic human right is not being realized, and the growing number of individuals accessing food banks is a clear indication of this reality. We are committed to doing the necessary work to meet the needs of our city by ensuring that immediate nutrition needs are met through food distribution, while at the same time leveraging policy research and mobilizing the community to impact long-term, systemic change.

Focused on a shared vision of ending hunger in Toronto, Daily Bread's staff and volunteers worked tirelessly to surpass each of the first-year goals within our three-year strategic plan:

- Food distribution increased by 18% to 13 million pounds, and new safety and quality guidelines were implemented even through the pandemic. Consistent coordination with the City's Emergency Response Group and a partnership with Toronto Public Libraries resulted in eleven pop-up food banks to serve areas impacted by closures due to COVID-19.
- A new advocacy strategy was developed to focus our efforts in four key pillars: deep poverty, affordable housing, economic and social resiliency, and food access. Through collaborative efforts with organizations across Ontario, we successfully advocated to prevent proposed cuts to social assistance and secure emergency financial benefits for social assistance recipients to offset COVID-19 related expenses.
- Innovative opportunities were created for the community to engage with Daily Bread. A partnership with RBC Venture and transit app Rocketman helped users looking to donate food, locate their nearest yellow bin; and the cast of Mirvish's Come from Away brought together the community in the spirit of holiday giving for an East-Coast Style Kitchen Party.

In addition, a Rights-Based Approach to food was adopted across our network of member agencies to empower and prioritize our clients, while providing respectful and dignified service at all food programs.

Despite the challenges posed by COVID-19, Daily Bread led by a simple promise to the city: to ensure safe and uninterrupted food delivery to every member agency. We scaled our operations in unprecedented ways to ensure that everyone of our neighbours in need of food, had a place to turn to.

When food banks in our network had to pause operations, we found alternatives through "pop-up" partnerships to fill gaps. When the volume of donated food decreased, we found untapped supply chains to purchase the food needed to meet demand. When volunteers had to be reduced, we created a safe bubble of dedicated volunteers to ensure no disruptions to our operation.

Despite the challenges, we are uplifted by new partnerships with donors, volunteers, food suppliers, government and the community at large. When we come together with a single vision, there is nothing we cannot overcome. In the pages ahead, you will see the results of our community rising.

Thank you for your contribution to our mission this past year – your actions are impacting thousands of individuals experiencing food insecurity every day.

In Partnership,

Neil Hetherington
Chief Executive Officer

DAILY BREAD FOOD BANK NOW ONE OF TOP 100 CHARITIES IN CANADA - MACLEAN'S

In October 2019, Maclean's Magazine announced its Top 100 List of Charities in Canada. We are thrilled that Daily Bread Food Bank was included in this prestigious group of major charities doing great work across the country.

Created to aid Canadians in making informed and effective decisions about charitable giving, Maclean's criteria for ranking required an up-to-date Charity Intelligence report and $2 million+ in annual revenue.

Thank you to everyone involved in maintaining best in class governance over this important mission and ensuring top-tier results.

ADVOCATING FOR SOLUTIONS TO END POVERTY:

Daily Bread Food Bank's new advocacy strategy, a key pillar in our three-year strategic plan, focuses in four key areas:

1. Tackling deep poverty: Ensuring no one faces long-lasting, persistent poverty.
2. Affordable housing: Ensuring a safe, affordable, adequate home for all.
3. Economic and social resiliency: Ensuring resiliency to long-term chronic stresses (e.g., mental health, disability, social isolation) as well as acute shocks (e.g., job loss, eviction).
4. Food Access: Ensuring that people have access to affordable, culturally appropriate, nutritious food.

This past year, Daily Bread has developed a number of policy submissions to advocate for poverty reduction, including:

- Submission to Ontario's Poverty Reduction Strategy consultations
- Submission to Ontario's consultations of new regulations for food donations
- Submission to municipal and provincial annual budget consultations
- Policy brief on social assistance reform
- Policy brief on COVID-19 emergency response and recovery

Advocacy in Action

Last Fall, as part of a coalition of twenty-four organizations across Ontario, we were successful in putting a stop to proposed social assistance cuts. This success was possible thanks to hundreds of food bank clients across Ontario who sent postcards designed by Feed Ontario to the Ministry of Children, Community and Social Services, describing why these cuts would make it even more difficult for them to meet their basic needs.

WHO'S HUNGRY 2019

Each year, Daily Bread publishes the annual Who's Hungry report, which profiles trends in hunger and food insecurity in Toronto.

With the help of 70 volunteers, over 1,400 surveys were conducted at over 50 book bank locations across the Toronto region.

The report found that despite the fact that food is a basic human right enshrined in the International Declaration of Human Rights, there were over 1 million visits to food banks in the Toronto region. In fact, food bank use in our city is growing at double the rate of the population.

Our research revealed that food bank clients are spending a staggering 74% of their income on housing, leaving a median of only $7.83 left per person per day for all other expenses.

This year's Who's Hungry report was the first in Daily Bread's history to put forward recommendations for how all levels of governments can achieve the right to food by:

- Strengthening social assistance.
- Expanding tax benefits and creating pathways out of poverty.
- Investing in affordable housing and tenant protections.
- Enhancing access to childcare.
- Ensuring access to affordable, nutritious, culturally appropriate food in all communities.
- Adopting a human rights-based approach to decision making.

Visit dailybread.ca/whoshungry to read the report.

Hunger is a symptom of poverty – it is a public policy issue that requires public policy solutions. We are committed to collaborating with all levels of government to push for long-term, systemic change.

AGENCY SPOTLIGHT: CANADIAN SOUTH ASIAN GROWTH AND SUPPORT SERVICES

Canadian South Asian Growth and Support Services (CSAGSS) is a multi-service organization that has been a Daily Bread Food Bank Member Agency since 2016, located within one of our twenty priority areas of Morningside and Mornelle Court. Their focus is to lift their community out of hunger and poverty by working to improve food security, health and wellness, and community engagement.

The grassroots nature of their organization has allowed CSAGSS to adapt quickly during the COVID-19 pandemic and effectively respond to the needs of the community. Prior to COVID-19, their food pantry was seeing approximately 400 visits monthly, now they serve more than 700 families each month.

Part of the food pantry's success has been driven by efforts to actively build relationships outside of the program with Toronto Community Housing staff, the area's Community Development Officer, University of Toronto Scarborough Campus, and other local agencies providing support and resources.

These relationships have allowed them to open another food bank in the Tuxedo Court community serving the 5,500 residents living in the five buildings that make up Tuxedo Court.

Manjura Rehman, Executive Director at CSAGSS, understands that food not only nourishes the body, but also brings people together. By encouraging the local community to get involved in running the program, the food pantry is now primarily run by Toronto Community Housing residents and clients looking to give back to their community.

"We strive to advocate for food as a fundamental human right," says Manjura Rehman, Executive Director, Canadian South Asian Growth and Support Services. "Here at CSAGSS we serve our community with respect, equity, care, and dignity and work tirelessly to ensure that our most vulnerable community members have continuous, uninterrupted access to food."

Since 2016, Daily Bread Food Bank has provided CSAGSS with 297,403 lbs. of food which include items like fresh produce, dairy, pasta, and prepacked hampers. We are inspired by the work of CSAGSS and their efforts to provide uninterrupted food service to those who need it most.

SUMMER PRODUCE MARKETS NOURISH OUR COMMUNITY

It was another successful year for Daily Bread Food Bank's Summer Produce Markets. In partnership with Toronto Community Housing Corporation, and with the support of generous Farm to Food Bank donors, the goal of these farmer-style markets is to facilitate the right to food in underserved, low-income communities and to provide a low-barrier way for individuals in need to access fresh, healthy produce at their front door.

Our Summer 2019 markets delivered 156,573 lbs of food and served close to 10,000 individuals, during the months of August and September.

I am so grateful to the produce donors, volunteers and staff who make this happen. The abundance of food [at the market] is simply amazing.

Sylvie, Daily Bread Food Bank client.

In addition to the distribution of fresh, healthy food, Daily Bread's Summer Produce Markets provide access for individuals who may be facing other difficulties, such as mobility issues, isolation, mental health challenges, dietary restrictions, or those who are simply unable to afford public transportation to get to a food bank or grocery store.

We are grateful to our Farm to Food Bank partners for providing a nutritious and varied bounty of fresh fruits and vegetables for the community, and to our committed and passionate volunteers who worked tirelessly to support food distribution.

Thank you to our generous Farm to Food Bank partners:

Circumstances put people where they are and anyone at any time may experience food insecurity. It is our duty to help those in need of food and we are glad our food is being used well. We look forward to continuing our partnership with Daily Bread Food Bank to ensure no one goes hungry.

William Boot, Boots Farms Inc.

FOOD DONOR: BOOTS FARMS INC.

Since 2017, Boots Farms Inc. has been a Daily Bread Food Bank Farm to Food Bank partner, providing 230,000 lbs of fresh, surplus vegetables for member agencies throughout the city.

Operating out of Scotland, Ontario, the farm is operated by William Boot, who has been growing vegetables for over fifty years, along with his wife Marianne and three children. Their responsible land stewardship promotes biodiversity and healthy soil life to ensure healthy food is produced now and for future generations.

This past year, William and Marianne Boot have donated over 67,000 lbs of produce including hearty squash, cabbage, green beans, peppers and leeks for our food programs, including our Summer Produce Markets. We are deeply grateful to the Boot family for joining Daily Bread's work to end hunger in Toronto and for providing fresh, local, nourishing food for thousands of families in need.

IN THE COMMUNITY

Best in Class

Last Fall, Daily Bread Food Bank was thrilled to present our annual Best in Class Awards, celebrating the remarkable commitment by individuals and organizations working to alleviate hunger and poverty in Toronto.

With Nana aba Duncan, host of CBC Fresh Air, as Master of Ceremonies, the event was held at the beautiful Artscape Daniels Launchpad.

Below is a list of our winners:

- Corporate Leader: Slalom Consulting
- Community Champion: CANstruction
- Food Industry Trailblazer: Ontario Potato Distributors
- Exceptional Volunteer: Trevor Neal
- Outstanding Food Program: Youth Unlimited Light Patrol
- Profound Community Impact: David Morales, Toronto Community Housing Corporation (TCHC)
- Visionary Drop-In Program: Sistering

A very special thank you to the community for publicly nominating these inspiring change makers, and to the Best in Class committee, comprised of Daily Bread staff and volunteers.

Purolator Red Bag Campaign

For the first time in Toronto, Purolator partnered with Daily Bread Food Bank for their Red Bag Campaign – as part of the larger Tackle Hunger Initiative.

In support of our annual Thanksgiving drive – Red Bags were distributed in a section of the Danforth area during the month of September, for families and individuals to fill with non-perishable food donations. Bags were then picked-up by volunteers to be distributed during Thanksgiving season.

Raising 6,474 lbs of food, this initiative was a powerful way to bring the community together during a time of need for many in our city. We are grateful to Purolator and everyone who made this campaign a success and look forward to continuing to work together to tackle hunger in Toronto.

CBC Sounds of the Season

It was another remarkable year for CBC Toronto Sounds of the Season, raising a record-breaking $839,137 and 18,559 lbs of food for our neighbours experiencing food insecurity.

The annual CBC Open House, a Toronto tradition was filled with highlights that included celebrating Matt Galloway's time as host of Metro Morning, performances by incredible Canadian talent including The Barenaked Ladies, and programming with favourite CBC personalities. In addition, the annual School Food Sort Challenge brought together over 100 students from schools across the GTA in a friendly competition to raise food and funds, and to sort and pack donations that went out to Daily Bread member agencies throughout the month of December.

We would like to thank the families and individuals who shared their personal stories through this campaign, and everyone at CBC for raising awareness about food insecurity and amplifying the voices of those struggling with hunger in our city.

Come from Away

Last December, the cast and musicians of Toronto's hit musical Come From Away, took over Daily Bread Food Bank for a fun and festive East-Coast style kitchen party that raised over $30,000 to support our food programs.

Guests were treated to live music from the show, as well as festive favourites, while enjoying delicious treats and holiday cheer.

We are grateful to Mirvish Productions for sharing this unique experience with us, and to our guests, for coming together as a community to support our neighbours in need.

TACKLING FOOD INSECURITY THROUGH GENEROSITY, PARTNERSHIP AND INNOVATION

The COVID-19 pandemic has challenged all of us at Daily Bread Food Bank to adapt rapidly and efficiently to continue to meet the growing need for food in our city during this unprecedented crisis.

Generous donors, dedicated volunteers, passionate supporters, and member agency partners have stepped up in every way and proven that we are stronger together. Through the spirit of kindness and collaboration, we have come together to meet our goal of delivering uninterrupted food deliveries regardless of circumstance.

When we had to shift our on-site food bank operation to adhere to new safety and social distance guidelines, GlobalMedic stepped up to provide infrastructure for a field hospital tent to be set up outside of the Daily Bread warehouse, where food hampers could be distributed safely through conveyor belt to over 1,300 clients weekly.

When food banks in Toronto were forced to temporarily close-down, we partnered with Toronto Public Libraries to open pop-up food banks in high-priority areas impacted by closures. In just two months, 300,000 lbs of food were distributed through these pop-ups and served over 18,000 individuals.

When support was needed to collect donation bins, moving company AMJ Campbell offered their fleet to sweep fire stations and grocery stores across the city, collecting over 40,000 lbs of food in just a few days.

A second temporary Daily Bread warehouse was opened to store and manage distribution of 60,000 emergency food boxes.

And there are many more stories. Generous donors prioritizing food access through philanthropic efforts. Community groups organizing contactless food drives. Children mobilizing neighbourhoods to raise funds. Corporate partners creating new platforms to support Daily Bread's mission.

We are inspired by and deeply grateful to everyone who has stepped up during this time of uncertainty. These collective efforts have made our city stronger. The COVID-19 pandemic has exposed immense challenges, but we are committed to ensuring everyone's right to food is realized regardless of circumstance.

Advocacy in Action: Responding to COVID-19

When the COVID-19 emergency was declared, thousands of individuals across the city who were already experiencing hunger were deeply impacted. It was essential to mobilize efforts to ensure that food bank clients had access to adequate supports.

As a member of the City of Toronto's pandemic food access table, Daily Bread Food Bank worked collaboratively with the City's Emergency Operations Centre and food organizations across the city to ensure continuous food access. Through this collaboration, we helped to establish food security as a top priority in the municipal pandemic response.

At the provincial level, in partnership with a number of anti-poverty organizations, we were successful in advocating for emergency financial benefits for social assistance recipients.

We continue to work closely with government partners to improve access and adequacy of benefits for those who need them.

Toronto Public Libraries Pop-up Food Banks

When the COVID-19 pandemic hit Toronto in March, Daily Bread Food Bank had to quickly adjust operations to ensure those most heavily impacted were able to continue to access food.

At a time when they were most needed, one third of food banks in Toronto had to close their doors, and we had to find an immediate way to fill the gaps arising in the community. The incredible team at Toronto Public Library (TPL) stepped up to the challenge in a powerful and innovative way.

Having had to temporarily close-down branches due to COVID-19, empty libraries across the city became spaces of hope for thousands of individuals in need, as they turned into pop-up food banks in areas impacted by food bank closures.

TPL staff members rolled up their sleeves and volunteered their time to pack food hampers and manage food distribution at twelve locations serving both Daily Bread and North York Harvest Food Bank clients.

In just two months, close to 300,000 lbs of food were distributed, serving 18,120 individuals experiencing food insecurity.

As libraries resumed operation during Phase Two of the City's re-opening plan, this incredible collaboration came to an end. New partners like the YMCA and the Center for Immigrant and Community Services (CICS) joined us to ensure uninterrupted service could continue to be delivered. Many of Daily Bread member agencies have now been able to re-open and new programs have been developed to better serve clients impacted by the pandemic.

We are grateful to Toronto Public Library, the City of Toronto, and our new and existing members for their commitment to ensuring everyone in our city can access the food they need.

Corporate Partner: Times Group

Times Group is a premier, Canadian owned and operated real estate firm. For over thirty-years, they have planned and built communities in the Greater Toronto area.

Immigrating to Canada in the 1980's amidst turmoil in Iran, founding partners Hashem Ghadaki, Mohamad Ghadaki, Saeid Aghaei, and Ali Mesgarzadeh, never lost sight of their difficult experiences, and as their business grew, they stayed committed to collaboration and giving back.

In 2019, Times Group worked with the City of Toronto to create a refugee resettlement center that could house up to four hundred refugees. In 2020, with the unexpected arrival of the COVID-19 crisis in Toronto, they saw another opportunity to make an impact in the community.

Times Group had acquired two apartment buildings planned for demolition and redevelopment in mid-town Toronto, that had been vacated and were slated for demolition at the time the City ordered the closure of all non-essential businesses. Understanding the potential use of these two sites as shelters during the pandemic, Times Group established a contract with the City to lease these buildings as temporary shelters for people experiencing homelessness, where occupants would have access to their own kitchen and bathroom, internet, television and a meal plan, allowing for social distancing and quarantining as necessary.

With a deep understanding of the importance of food access in addition to safe housing, Times Group generously donated $250,000 to Daily Bread Food Bank's COVID-19 hunger-relief efforts.

On behalf of the thousands of individuals impacted by their support, we would like to extend our thanks to everyone at Times Group for their commitment to building resilient communities and their efforts to ensure those in need of food always have a place to turn to.

Food insecurity is a constant challenge faced by our communities. Times Group is proud to support Daily Bread Food Bank as they work to aid those who courageously face this challenge every day.

Hashem Ghadaki, President, Times Group Corporation.

This isn't a time for status-quo. We need to make noise and take up space in these conversations to ensure that everyone has access to their basic human right to food. The strength of our community lies in ensuring that everyone is lifted up, when we leave people behind, there is no community.

Donor Highlight: Vohra-Miller Foundation

As a first-generation immigrant, Sabina Vohra has faced food insecurity first-hand. Having moved to Toronto as a university student, trying to pay for books and tuition, often meant that she had little money left to cover rent, transportation, and most importantly food.

Today, as a committed philanthropist and mother to a little boy, Sabina cannot imagine other people, especially children, going without food. The Vohra-Miller Foundation was thus created with a goal of improving the health of the planet and health of all people.

"Food insecurity is a pressing concern in the best of times, but COVID-19 has really highlighted some of the fragile and broken parts of our ecosystem," says Sabina, who has been using her voice and platform to share Daily Bread's vision of a hunger free Toronto, in hopes that others will consider their support. "Food is a determinant of health, and no one should ever have to worry about access to safe, nutritious and wholesome food. The foundation of Daily Bread Food Bank is that food is a human right, and the work they're doing to ensure that systemic change is happening while at the same time meeting the urgent need for food is incredible."

We are grateful to the Vohra-Miller Foundation for taking up our cause as their own, and for joining us as advocates in the fight against hunger.

Agency Spotlight: Soso World Ministries

It is hard to put a number on how many people and households have benefited from our food donation programs. And to tell you the truth we have never been an organization to put a number on those we serve. It has always been about helping families and individuals and strengthening the community. Many of those we have assisted over the years, are now volunteers and community leaders.

Soso World Ministries was started in 2016 by Scarborough resident Garth Soso and his wife Debra, who began their community work by dropping off donated bread to Toronto Community Housing Corporation (TCHC) communities. Eventually, they grew in size and number of locations as they received more food donations.

When the COVID-19 pandemic hit Toronto, their deep roots in the community allowed them to identify gaps in service and open new programs with the support of Daily Bread Food Bank. This past June, over 100,000 lbs of nutritious food including eggs, milk, halal meat, fresh produce and shelf-stable items were provided to be distributed across various food programs run by Soso World Ministries.

Their geographic area is centered in Scarborough and a majority of their programs are focused in TCHC communities within the area. They now serve between seventy to one hundred households weekly and operate nineteen satellite food banks serving TCHC tenants.

Self-funded by Garth and Debra, Soso World Ministries is currently fully volunteer-based, with upwards of sixty-five individuals assisting with programs. Most volunteers come directly from the communities they serve and provide support with deliveries, coordination and administration work.

At Daily Bread, we are thankful for grassroots organizations like Soso World Ministries for their deep commitment to serving those who need it most, and we are inspired by their immediate community-focused response to the COVID-19 crisis.

Volunteer Spotlight: Sarah and Keith

Volunteers are essential to the day-to-day operations at Daily Bread Food Bank. This past year 7,563 individuals volunteered at Daily Bread, donating a total of 55,938 hours of service.

Volunteers like Sarah and Keith, who first joined our organization in November 2019. With a deep commitment to our mission, they have logged over 1,165 volunteer hours and have worked tirelessly through the COVID-19 crisis.

Whether sorting food, helping in the food bank, or picking orders for our agencies, Sarah and Keith's passion is infectious. We are thankful for their immense contribution and positivity as they work towards our vision of a hunger-free city.

To be able to come here, contribute to the community and be helpful, especially now, with everything going on in the world is a great feeling.

Pandemic Fund:

The Board of Directors has created a Pandemic Fund for the purpose of alleviating the effects of the current economic downturn on the city of Toronto. The Pandemic Fund provides funds to allow the organization to help maintain client service levels in the event of decreased donations, increased client demand and operational changes resulting from the current pandemic. Uses of the Pandemic Fund will be restricted to cover increases in food, cleaning, and other operating costs required to serve increased numbers of clients, while maintaining increased infection prevention and control standards. Funds may be used by the organization or directed to member agencies. Capital costs will be eligible to the extent that they address health and safety risks or build capacity for ongoing elevated client needs. The Board has transferred $13M into the Pandemic Fund this fiscal year.

The wages and benefits paid to each of Daily Bread Food Bank's full time staff meet the requirements of the Ontario Living Wage Network. For more information visit ontariolivingwage.ca

Daily Bread Food Bank is run by a volunteer Board elected annually by its member agencies, which reflect the City of Toronto. Over one-third of the Board of Directors self-identifies as individuals with lived experience. We believe this adds significant value to the conversations, decisions and governance structure of the organization.

We acknowledge that we are situated upon traditional territories of the Mississaugas of the Credit, the Anishnabeg, the Chippewa, the Haudenosaunee and the Wendat peoples. Today, the meeting place of "Tkaronto" (Toronto) is still the home to many First Nations, Métis, and Inuit peoples from across Turtle Island. We are grateful to have the opportunity to work on this land.
