

Canada Disability Benefit

Who's eligible and how to apply

The Canada Disability Benefit (CDB) is a monthly benefit designed to reduce poverty among low-income, working-age persons with disabilities. You may receive up to $2,400 per year ($200 per month). The amount depends on several factors, including your income, marital status, employment, and other considerations.

Applications opened on June 20, 2025. If you were eligible earlier, you may receive retroactive payments from June 2025. Once your application is approved, you will receive a letter every June confirming your qualification for the benefit and the eligible amount.

What are the eligibility requirements?

- You are a Canadian resident between the ages of 18 and 64.
- You qualify for the Disability Tax Credit (DTC), a federal income tax credit that helps reduce taxes for people living with disabilities. You'll need a medical practitioner to complete part of the application form for DTC, accessible on the government portal (www.canada.ca)
- You and your spouse or common-law partner, if applicable, filed your 2024 federal income tax return.

What do I need for my CDB application?

- If you meet all eligibility criteria and already have the DTC, you should receive a letter in the mail with a 6-digit application code.
- You'll also need:
 - Your Social Insurance Number (SIN)
 - Mailing address
 - Banking information (branch number, institution number, account number)
- If you didn't receive a letter, you can still apply but you'll also need your net income amount (line 23600 on your 2024 Notice of Assessment), in addition to your SIN, mailing address, and banking information.

How do I apply?

- Online: Through the government portal (canada.ca/disability-benefit) This is the fastest option.
- Phone: Call Service Canada at 1-833-486-3007
- In person: Visit a Service Canada office
- By mail: Complete, print, and mail the application form labelled CDB0004 to the CDB Processing Centre
